THREE REASONS GIVEN. The court finds that there are three reaprofits accrueing above the return of investments to stockholders and the annual as follows:

"First-The irrevocable right to 15 percentum, expressly conferred, negatives a language employed in disposing of 'the entirely improbable that the Legislature in-

"Second-The faithful account of construction, of expenses and receipts, required by Sections 23 and 35, and the mandatory implies the contemplated existence of a substantial balance. "Third-It is clear that the lawmakers considered that under their liberal grant the time might come when the corporation would be receiving larger profits than were fust, and when that time arrived, if ever, points of the decision. The court says: my earnings in excess of fairness should be relinquished by it. The limitation that entered into this consideration is stated as affecting the periods both before and after full reimbursement of the builders, and it seems incredible that the legislators should deem it expedient to declare Deduct total governtheir sense of what was just and fair to the shareholders and State, dispose of the excess over the limit fixed by them, and then provide, or leave for construction, that the company's right to the unjust excess should accrue by legislative inaction on the subject of regulating its tolls."

MEANING OF TERMS. "The fight of the litigants was over the meaning of the terms in the section of the charter of 1847 quoted, "full sum invested" and "capital employed." The State insisted that the terms embrace only such sums as were contributed directly by those who surchased corporation stock to construct the road and the sum paid for bonds that were issued and used for construction and subsequently converted under their provisions into shares of stock. The amoun aggregated $1,216,600 under the construction the State put upon the matter. The railroad maintained that the terms mean the full cost of construction and equipment whether contributed directly by the stockholders or taken from the earnings of the road, amounting to $1,988,150. The amount in dispute, therefore, was $771,460, and the decision of the court was that this should go to the State.

"capital employed" are used synonymously, but that "fall sum invested" and "cost of the road" were not used by the Legislature as equivalent terms.

"It was never contemplated that earnings, in any form, should become a part of a much larger sum, and was clearly within the full sum invested in the sense that they | the evidence.' should be returned with 10 per cent. interest, and, therefore, be entitled to 15 per annual dividends. Such reasoning leads to an absurdity," says the opinion. 'Will it be seriously contended," Judge Hadley asks, "that the General Assembly conferred upon the corporation power arbitrarily to settle for itself and for the State what should constitute the 'full sum what a reasonable sum for future contingencies? if it did, in the doing of it it to provide for the payment of a surplus to | an appeal would not be taken. the State. To hold that it was given over to the company conclusively to resolve as in operation, that all betterments, extensions and extraordinary improvements paid for from the earnings, and bonded indebtedness incurred for construction, but paid from the profits, and divers other items that represented not a dollar used in the construction of the road, may be, at the pleasure of the company, capitalized, counted and refunded as a part of the full sum invested within the meaning of Section 23, is equivalent to holding that it was the legislative intent to place it wholly within the power of the corporation to de- | for the nomination of all state candidates, feat the State's right, by avoiding the accumulation of a surplus. The court says that if the directors had divided the surplus profits, as they arose, among the stockholders as dividends, "the day of reckoning with the State would have been hastened by several years, and it would be grossly inequitable to permit them to eliminate the rights of the State by withholding and diverting such profits into other forms."

ANOTHER POST-MORTEM EXAMINA-TION OF MRS. GORE'S REMAINS.

Physicians Chosen by Consul General Gowdy Find the Bullet Wound Was Nearly Horizontal.

PARIS, Nov. 25 .- The independent postmortem examination over the remains of Mrs. Ellen Gore made by the commission of four American doctors appointed by Consul-General Gowdy, at the instance of the State Department at Washington, was made this morning at the morgue. The American doctors found that the bullet entered the pupil of the right eye, cutting the lower eyelid and emerging in the rear of the right side of the head, at less than an inch elevation from the point of entry. The body bore no marks of a struggle, and there were no powder marks at the entrance of the wound.

The four American doctors, A. J. Magnin, Edmund L. Gross, Turner and Whitman, were present at the examination, as was also Dr. Soquet, at the request of the French officials, and M. Pacquet, representing Mr. Gowdy. The body was brought into the amphitheater used for demonstrations before students. Dr. Soquet directed the course of the first autopsy, and the American doctors carefully made their own inspection, but they made no new incisions. The skull had been sawed in two parts along the course of the wound, which permitted the Americans to make measurements to establish the range of the bullet. It was obvious that the range was not greatly upward, as at first announced, but was almost parallel with the ear. The absence of powder marks at the entrance of the wound was partly accounted for by the use of smokeless powder, although the American officials insisted that suicide would have compelled the holding of the weapon so close to the wound that it would have been somewhat burned.

Mr. Gowdy announced that, as the Amercan dectors' investigation was official, he would decline to give out the results, which will be sealed and forwarded to Washing-American doctors, while holding that the wound was almost horizontal, incline to the general conclusion that the tragedy was the result of an accident. The American doctors are impressed with the thoroughness with which the French surgeons investigated the case, and they are not inclined to raise a professional issue. At least two of the American doctors hold an outright accident theory, and they will seek to have that view incorporated in the official report. The grounds for this conclusion are the following: The French experts exhibited at the morgue this morning a geometrical design in which one line showed the direction of the bullet from the revolver price of the properties. as it struck the floor and another line showed the victim in a leaning posture sitting at the foot of the bed, as had been described by De Rydzewski. The angle of the bullet wound tallied exactly with the geometrical design based on De Rydzewski's statement, and the American doctors verified this. The fact that the direction of the wound was almost parallel with the earth is accounted for by the leaning posture of the victim. The doctors regard this design as almost equivalent to a mathematical demonstration The Temps to-night says that it was the activity displayed by the Russian colony on behalf of De Rydzewski which stimulated the American officials into a counter activity on behalf of the late Mrs. Gore. The officials of the United States consulate this afternoon attended the sealing of the body of Mrs. Gore in a metallic casket, which will not be again opened. Mr. Gowdy received from the State Department a request from Mrs. Gore's relatives to take possession of her effects. Accordingly, he took charge of two trunks, a good deal of music, and a little jewelry. The articles showed the simple, refined tastes of the deceased.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 .- Some time ago it of the country were about to form a gigantic combination, and later it was reported they would include all the live stockyards in their scheme. Now the Commercial Advertiser says: "The proposed United States Packing Company-the giant combination of beef packers which was to have had a capital of $500,000,000-is postponed indefinitely, if not entirely abandoned. Incidentally the packers who were most prominent in promoting the combine are loaded up with a lot of properties for which they paid large sums of money, and which were to have been ferent packing concerns that were to be taken in and the money borrowed for the purchase of plants whose owners would not accept the new securities in exchange, there is a total indebtedness of nearly $90,000,000 now outstanding. "Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Nelson Morris & Co., of Chicago, Cudahy & Co., of Omaha, and Schwarzschild & Sultzberger are the principal concerns which were to be combined. A number of independent packing houses, however, were to be taken over, and it was for these that the money was borrowed equal to the purchase

"The Hammond Company, of Hammond, Ind., and the United Dressed Beef Company, of New York, were taken over, and some smaller concerns in Chicago and in other Western cities were acquired for cash. It is understod these properties were apportioned among the big packing concerns that were to be in the new combination, and they borrowed money from their own banks in Chicago and New York, taking title to the properties with the intention of turning them over to the combine when it had been effected. In New York an underwriting syndicate was formed which was to have furnished $90,000,000 in cash to pay for various properties acquired and the floating debt of the companies taken in exchange for the new securities.

"Dissensions have recently arisen as to terms under which the combination was to be brought about. It is said Swift & Co. insisted on the proprietors being taken in on the basis of the actual business transacted, and that Cudahy & Co. insisted upon the net profits being taken as the basis under which the different properties would be taken over. There were other reasons leading up to abandoning of the plan of bringing together the meat packers of the United States, one being the unfavorable monetary situation and another the attitude of some of the big financiers in New

"The packing combination was to have been one of the greatest industrial corporations in the world. It would have stood next to the United States Steel Corporation in capitalization, and it would have practically controlled the meat industry of the United States, from the raising of cattle to the actual marketing of the products at retail. In addition to owning all the great stockyards of the United States and packing houses in which the various meat products are turned out the company would have controlled factories for the handling of the various by-products, refrigerator lines for the shipment of fresh meats, supply depots for the selling of its products to retailers, and in certain cases it was expected retail shops would be opened by the

He was found violently ill this afternoon by the hotel clerk, who ordered him removed to the Springfield Hospital, where he died Just before lapsing into unconsciousness at the hotel he rang for a bellboy. Handing fluid, he said: "Take this to a physician

The attending physician says that laudanum or some similar strong drug caused his death. Efforts to locate his relatives have brought no returns, but the hotel clerk thinks he has a clew to the identity of the man who gave the bottle of supposed whisky to Stuart.

LARGE CROWD SAW INDIANAPOLIS WIN FROM ANDERSON.

Hipson and Gavitt Scored Goals for Indianapolis-Exciting Game at Elwood.

Indianapolis people were given their first taste of professional polo at Tomlinson Hall last night, when the opening game in them the machinery, the means needed and | this city in the Western Roller Polo League was played between Indianapolis and Anderson. It is an exciting sport and the crowd took to it at once. Indianapolis was the first to score, and this increased enthusiasm in the game. Indianapolis was always in the lead, and the final score resulted 8 to 4 in favor of Indianapolis.

About 2,500 persons, very few of whom were familiar with the sport, watched the game. Before the first inning was played nearly every person in the hall understood the game and showed their interest by frequent applause and rooting for the home team. The playing field is so laid out that spectators in any part of the house can see the play.

Indianapolis outplayed Anderson, but they had to fight hard for a victory. All of the Indianapolis players figured in the victory. Hipson did good work at first rush and his driving for goals was one of the features of the contest. Gavitt was also a factor was announced that the packing interests in securing goals. Way, at half back, did clever work at blocking the drives from the opposing players, while Berry's work as goal tender won him much applause. His alertness in blocking the ball prevented Anderson from securing many more goals. Coggshall played a good game at center.

J. Mooney and T. Murphy, the two rushes on the Anderson team, played the best game for the visiting team. Mullen's work at goal was not to be compared with Berry's defensive work. Mullen spent much of his time whirling his club and the Indianapolis players were permitted to drive the ball into the cage.

clever work was done by both teams. The ball was driven from one cage to the other without a goal being secured. Gavitt scored the first goal with a clever backhand stroke in eight minutes and nine seconds. Hipson made the second goal for Indianapolis in three minutes and eleven seconds. The first period ended with the scores 2 to 0 in favor of Indianapolis. Mooney secured the rush in the opening of the second inning, and Gavitt, by a long, back-hand drive, caged the ball. After Hipson made the rush Murphy scored the first goal for Anderson in ten seconds. Murphy scored another goal in five minutes as Berry left the cage and the Anderson second rush scored. Gavitt and Hipson both secured goals before time was called. The second period ended with the score 5 to 2 in favor of Indianapolis. Mooney made the rush at the opening of the third period, and Hipson made goal in forty seconds. Mooney again made the rush and also scored a goal for Anderson, After Hipson made the rush Murphy scored goal. Mooney secured the rush and Hipson made goal in thirty seconds. The playing was fast, but Hipson secured the next rush, and by clever passes between Way and
